(By telegraph to the Dispatch.] Debate in the United States Senate on the Louisiana Question.

WASHINGTON, January 12 .- The Senate had up to-day the resolution of Mr. SCHURZ instructing the Judiciary Committee to inonire what legislation by Congress is necestheir rights of self-government under the onstitution and report with the least possible delay by bill or otherwise.

Mr. Howe, of Wisconsin, criticised Mr. Schenz's speech of yesterday, and denied that the army of the United States had removed from the Louisiana Legislature any member of that body. He defended the (General Sheridan, and said he was not in command of New Orleans when the of Monday, January 4th, took place. Referring to the speech of Mr. Gordon, he Republican party did not hate any ortion of this country. All the laws made South were also made for the North. Republican party had poured out the of the country as freely to open he channels of southern ports as it had the channels of northern ones. It the majority of the peo- to 14. ste supported the Kellogg government, as ie chamber, how was it that the courts of that State, aided by the army of the United States, did not bring the perpetrators of these crimes to justice? Mr. Howe replied he would not go into that question now, but to the best of his inemation the courts of the State were weak. Mr. Gorpon said the Senator, by implication if not by direct words, charged that murders were committed in the Red River parish. If it be true, it was a most remarke fact that the attorney for Louisiana, who belonged to the same party as the Senator, did not prosecute the criminals. The Senator had said the courts were weak. If the attorney had not the brains or the nerve to draw min bill of indictment the Democratic party was certainly not responsible. [Applause in

Mr. Howe said : No matter what the Senator might think of the personal qualifications of the attorney for Louisiana, he would say that if the Democratic party of Louisiana would say to Governor elloge that they would sustain him in transactions as took place in the Red River parish would ever take place again. He becratic side of the chamber would tell the of the South that they would not tolerate these offences there would be no more of them.

Mr. Morton said it was well understood in the Red River parish that witnesses who would be murdered, and that was the reason why these criminals in Louisiana had not order. been punished.

He (Howe) did not suring the conduct of General Sheridan. That officer did not say all the citizens of referred to by Sheridan, Congress could see for itself that it was so.

Mr. BAYARD read Sheridan's dispatch in arraignment of the whole community of New Orleans. It seemed to him (Bayard) almost incredible that a senator so advanced in years and so amiable as the senator from Wisconsin should find fault with him for stating that Sheridan's conduct was that of in regard to that dispatch. He (Howe) did not regard that as evidence of human ferocity, especially in one trained as a soldier. Did the Senator from Delaware (Bayard) believe there was any senator, especially on the Republican side, who would consent to the slightest infraction of the Constitution? Did he believe the Republican party wanted to substitute a despotism for a constitutional gov-

Mr. BAYARD said he could scarcely believe the Senator asked him that question seriously. He did believe the Republican party had trampled upon the Constitution till there was scarcely a vestige of it left. He had seen effort after effort to break it down till he believed, as he believed in his existence, that the party paid no respect to it. Mr. Howe denied that the Republican party wanted any despotism. In conclusion, he argued that the Democrats in 1854 employed a detachment of the army in Boston to take one negro out of that city. It had been said that the people are preparing to overthrow the party which has conducted the Government since 1861. It might come. He was not insensible to it, but he could not consent to turn back as admonished by the Senator from Missouri (Schurz) yesterday. He was not constituted on the crawfish order. There might be storms ahead, and it might be prudent for those not fully insured to go ashore; but he was going to complete the voyage, and if the ship went down before the voyage was completed he was going down with it; andif it should ever be raised again, as it must be, for the great Underwriter would attend to that, there would be found at the masthead her flag, upon which might be read that all men, whatever their race or color might be, had equal rights in the pursuit of fife, liberty, and happiness.

whole day in the Senate in defending the | was taken and the resolutions referred to course of the Administration and General Sheridan on the Louisiana question. He attempted to reply to the great speech of Schurz of yesterday, but the powerful argument of the latter remains unanswered. The same old story of southern outrage, murder, and assassination, was paraded again by Mr. Howe, but the telling points of Mr. Schurz and others, showing how the law aside, could not be replied to.

From present appearances this Louisiana debate bids fair to occupy the attention of the Senate for the next week or two, as there are at least ten or fifteen senators already prepared to speak upon it. Logan has the floor for to-morrow, and it may be expected that he will magnify every dispute ever heard of in the South to a first-class southern outrage.

> Senator Thurman Squelches West, of Louisiana.

In the United States Senate on Monday-Mr. West said here, in the city of Washngton, yesterday a direct proposition had been made for the assassination of the President. He then sent to the desk to be read an article from the Washington Capital, of yesterday (Donn Piatt's paper), commenting on the statement that ambiguous threats of assassinating the President and General Sheridan had been made, and saying that the men sitting safely in their arm-chairs instigating a civil war might find it necessary to protect their own worthless lives in Washington. Mr. West also had read a communication in the New York Tribune, signed J. H. H., concluding with the intimation that was an atmosphere of assassination not only in Washington, but in the great metropolis Mr. HUNDLEY moved to add at the end of the country, and he asked if any senator yould approve of it.

Mr. Thurman said he atways laughed when Bombastes Furioso was stamping around. As to Donn Piatt's paper, he supposed Donn Piatt could take care of himself next Sunday. He said it was an impertinence and an can people were not a people who approved The Chair decided that the proposition of assassination, and this attempt to get up

In the morning early one immense size may be gathered from the fact that the calf of his right leg measured twenty-nine inches in circumference. He was about five feet eight inches in height, and was without doubt the heaviest man in the United States. He was said to have been a singularly handsome man, and his unusual size did not seem to detract from his personal comeliness."

Mr. Abert, the recusant witness in the matter of the Pacific-mail money, was brought before the bar of the House to-day for contempt in refusing to answer certain mestions propounded bim by the Committee of Ways and Means as to whom he paid money placed in his hands by the Pacific Mail Company. He stated that he would answer the question if ordered to do so by the House. This order was made, when the witness went before the Ways and Means Committee and read a prepared statement to ustify his course, and an additional opinion of Hon. Reverdy Johnson, which stated, in view of his being used as a mere disbursing agent, he was bound to answer the questions of the committee. Spring No. 1 of these Springs is considered, well nigh specific in the diseases peculiar to women, in dyspepsia, and in chronic intermittent and remittent fevers. Spring No. 2, though of recent discovery, has made some of the most remarkable cures upon record in affections of the kidneys and bladder and appendages. It has given decided relief in gouty and rheamatic affections dependent upon uric acid in the blood, and has shown great power in affections of the liver and stomach. The water of either spring, but up in boxes containing ons dozen half-gallon bottles, will be delivered at the Scottsburg depot of the Richmond and Danville railroad at $6 per box, to be paid in advance.
